Hobby Show Plans

Committee Decides Upon Nov. 16-18 As Dates For This Exhibition

At a meeting of the hobby show committee Thursday night, it was decided to hold this year's Hobby Show for three days, Nov. 16, 17, and 18, in the Community building.

Rev. Corwin H. Olds will again be general chairman, and the plan of the show will include many new and different ideas. Everybody who has a hobby that can be exhibited is invited to participate in this show, which is intended to be community-wide. Hobbies of an unusual nature will be especially welcome. Persons whose hobbies are of a stage nature, whether musical, dramatic, vaudeville, dancing, stunts and tricks, etc., will also have an opportunity to display their talents.

There will be handicraft exhibits collections of various kinds, art exhibits, and so many other things that this will be one of the biggest shows ever presented for the money. There will be no gambling or catch-penny devices or games, and the low admission fee will be the only charge except for refreshments.

Everybody remembers what a great success last year's show was, and indications at present are that the Hobby Show this year will be even bigger and better. Chairmen of the various committees will be announced within a few days.

Lincoln Baptists

Meeting At The Church In Liberty Marked By Inspiring Messages

Lincoln Baptist Association met in Liberty Wednesday. Nature's display of beauty along the highways as the delegates rode to the beautiful little village, so filled their hearts with delight that all could say with the Psalmist surely "the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork."

The messages centered around Jas. 1:22. "Be Ye doers of the Word."

One of the outstanding speakers was Miss Jennie Reilly who, having spent ten years in South India gave a thrilling description of the anarvelous transformation taking place on the mission fields, in the great awakening of the caste people, and their turning to the living God for salvation from sin. She graphically pictured the faithful witness of some of those women, who suffered great persecution because they dared publicly witness for their Lord among their unbelieving neighbors.

Another speaker of interest was Rev. J. C. Robbins of New York who, having several times visited the mission fields in India, gave first hand information of the opportunities before the Christian today, to gather the fields which are ready for the harvest.

He spoke of the staunch faithfulness of the missionaries, in danger of death; and their determination to stick to their posts and preach the only hope of salvation to fallen man, the Lord Jesus Christ. Surely hearts must have been stirred as he spoke of the inadequacy of present funds to meet the great need of this work, and gave illustrations of the cry of the heart of so many different classes of people who earnestly desired to "know what God is like."

LINDBERGH ANGERS SOVIETS

No prudent American wants to pick a quarrel with Russia at a time when Russia looms as a possible and valuable ally. The Soviets are perhaps not without reason in their disgust at the manner in which the European situation was handled, and in which that powerful nation seems to have been overlooked, if not actually snubbed.

But it rather shocked the whole world the other day when the Soviets "jumped" upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and characterized him as a stupid liar and lackey, and a flatterer of German Fascists! Col. Lindbergh's advice had been sought during the Czechoslovakian crisis, and what Russia objects to seems to have been the frankness with which he acknowledged Germany's tremendous power in the field of aviation. Russia is rather "chesty" on that subject, herself, and according to newspaper reports says that she could have sent 3000 planes to the aid of the Czechs. Commenting upon Col. Lindbergh's statement that "aviation has created the most fundamental change ever made in war," and "that it has turned defense into attack," the Boston Herald editorially says:

It would appear that Col. Lindbergh is convinced of the irresistible offensive power of aerial armadas. Incidentally, elaborate tests by the American army in North Carolina last week showed, according to the Associated Press, that it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to stop bombing raids by enemy planes. What Col. Lindbergh told his British friends last month was probably, not that the Russian, French, or British air force was superior or inferior to the German, but that no air force, however potent, could prevent enemy bombers from doing severe damage to its own civilian centers. Such an opinion, it need hardly be emphasized, doubtless strengthened the British government's determination to avoid war at almost any cost.

And the rather surprising thing about it is that any nation should have to be told of that danger by Col. Lindbergh or anyone else. What we have learned from the wars in Ethiopia, Spain and China if it is not that the whole situation is dominated by the terror from the skies? Who is there that should not agree with Col. Lindbergh that "we no longer protect our families with an army; that our libraries, our museums and every one of the institutions we value most are laid bare to bombardment." The untutored Ethiopians fled in terror before the assaults of the bombing planes, but Spain and China, injured to aerial war, and armed to avert it, seems to be equally helpless. Powerful Navies and large standing Armies are both indispensable in the war scheme, but it would seem that neither would prevail against the sky forces should they launch an unsuspected attack upon the large American cities.

FORSEE REPUBLICAN GAINS

The magazine Newsweek has been conducting a poll among political experts, and deduces from it that the Republicans will gain 50 seats in the House and four in the Senate in next Month's elections. Among the reasons assigned for these inroads into the Democratic column are: Business recession, natural mid-term swing away from the party in power, and dissension among the Democrats. And the greatest of these is the last named. The expected gains would still leave the Republicans a minority factor, but it might "grease the ways" for even more radical results in 1940. When President Roosevelt admitted he was alarmed about New York State and forced Gov. Lehman to stay in the game, it shows the marked trend of the times along the Eastern seaboard to say the least.

FINDING THE RED EAR

Thelma Fickett found the red ear of corn at the New Gloucester corn husking and had to kiss all of the 75 men who were participating in that function. It is fair to assume that when she had completed this kissing marathon she must have been as red about the ears as the corn was.

WEARY OF CHICKEN

Because he was "sick of eating chicken" a Massachusetts farmer is said to have admitted stealing pig iron to obtain money for a change of diet. The shift from chicken to pork appears to have been ill advised.

JIM FARLEY'S IDEA

Postmaster General James A. Farley has expressed a desire to return to private life after 1940. There are some persons unkind enough to be willing to give him a two-year waiver, but the genial Jim will probably not take advantage of it.

A WAR OF EXTERMINATION

The Spanish War which was to have been over about two years ago still fills the news column with accounts of "tremendous losses." As wars do not provide any gains, the newspaper correspondents are either "stringing" us, or Spain's population must have been greatly underrated at the outset.

AIDING OUR HOSPITAL

The appeal of the Knox Hospital directors which appeared in Thursday's issue of this paper was a message which should have been read and digested by every reader. It set forth in terse and understandable language the fact that the institution has a tremendous overhead and gives free service little understood by any person outside of it. The management desires to avoid a drive, because drives are a burden upon any community, but it does suggest an eminently practical plan—that of voluntary contributions until there is raised a fund which would give the Hospital the proper working strength—and morale.

A Terrific Struggle

In Which Deadly Smoke Screen Fails To Subdue Camden Bowlers

After a terrific struggle last night, Camden defeated Frank McKinney's team of ex-bowlers by 29 pins. No excuses were offered—only alibis. Frank's cigar had all hands down, and what a smoke screen!

Carr was looking for lobster bait and rolled the amazing total of 430, his face being the color of a broiled shell fish. Morris Harding, Rockland's bowling barber, substituted for Ken Roes and went to town with 476.

Roy Hobbs, anchor man, found his gear dragging and wound up with 446 which was startling. Milkman Johnson claimed Camden had six men on its team (that is, with Carr). "Chick" Maynard was the only man on his team to be defeated by his opponents, losing by 37 pins. No one had many high strings. Johnson of Camden was high total with 507; also high single, 124.

The score:

"GRIFF'S" NARROW ESCAPE

In his capacity as custodian of the Court House, Milton M. Griffin, clerk of courts, was Thursday called to the dome of that building to over-climb, and found himself greeted with the warning to "look out!"

In dodging he bent partly over and was struck on the back by a bucket of white paint which completely enveloped his clothing and left him in a half dazed condition.

It is quite likely that if he had not dodged the bucket would have struck him on the head, and maybe have knocked him from his perch 100 feet above the ground.

Clerk Griffin has not fully recovered from his recent serious surgical operation.

Young G.O.P. Orators

Finals In Contest To Be Held At Bates College Tuesday Night

U. S. Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., of Lewiston, will preside at the State finals of the Young Republican national oratorical contest Tuesday at Bates College, Lewiston, the Maine Council of Young Republican Clubs announced Wednesday.

The finals will be held at Hathorn hall at 7.30 p. m. Three of the six participants will receive prizes of $100, $50 and $25 in the order of their adjudged excellence. The winner also will receive a trip to Providence the following weekend to compete in the New England finals.

Winners of the regional finals will be sent to Washington to compete Nov. 1 in the national finals. The contest is sponsored by the Young Republican National Federation with the support of the Republican National Committee and the various senior State committees. Contestants must be between 16 and 24 to be eligible.

Rotarians enjoyed a pleasing program yesterday furnished by high school students. Kenneth Post performed on the harmonica, giving as his first number "Saxophobia," and "A-Tisket-A-Tasket" as an encore. Miss Ruth Seabury presented three fine readings, "When Grandmother Was a Girl," "At A Baseball Game" and "Talk, Talk, Talk." Miss Bernice Havener and Kenneth Post sang "I've Got a Pocketful of Dreams" and "This May Be The Night." Albert Dodge, club pianist, accompanied the performers. Visiting Rotarians at yesterday's meeting were John R. Dunton, Belfast, E. L. True, Camden, and Frank E. Poland, Boston. Guests were Tom Houston of Belfast, Dr. James P. Kent, and Frank W. Fuller.

A visitor who had parked his car in a North Main street garage Thursday night was amazed, when he went for it, to find a young girl covered with robes and asleep in the rear seat. On the following day in the same neighborhood the same girl was found hiding in the closet of a house. She was identified.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin

THE OLD WATCHDOG

The leaves make gentle crisping sounds Beneath the old dog's busy feet As he patrols the quiet street Upon his self-appointed rounds. His muzzle grays; and sleep is good, And putting needles for his ease, And food three sacred—yet all these He yields for some half understood Yet sterner driving duty. Thus He chases squirrels and passing cars, Then lifts his eyes as to the stars In faith he is protecting us.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

If the summer folks could only have been in Knox County yesterday, enjoying that delicious atmosphere and a ride through the flaming woodlands.

It is all right now to pronounce the word just as it is spelled fillet. In polite circles it has been customary to pronounce it "fil-ly," but a recent meeting of the National Fisheries Convention fixed all that, and there can no longer be an up-lifting of eyebrows when somebody orders "fil-let."

I had always supposed (and still suppose) that Isle au Haut meant High Island. But somebody undertook to tell me yesterday that the name came from "Isle Ahoy." It would be interesting to know the derivation of some of the Knox County names, and I will be glad to receive communications on the subject.

What name do they apply to the water in which vegetables are cooked? Yesterday I heard it called "tide."

A Rockland man who holds a position of prominence in county affairs, has not drank a glass of water in 10 years. Nest the reader fall into the belief that he uses spirituous liquor let it be said that he prefers coffee. But imagine going without water (internally) for 10 years!

One year ago: The city salary resolve carried a total of $32,004. A Camden woman was positive she saw members of the Brady gang at Megunticook Lake.—Mrs. Mabelle W. Squires was named as choir director and church worker at the First Baptist Church.—The bell which had hung in the tower of the Cedar street church was removed by Albert T. Thurston

There's some danger of a sweet cider famine, if one is to believe the reports now current. But in the town of Hampden, which sells more cider by the roadside than perhaps any other community in the State, the business appears to be as brisk as ever.

Sometimes High School students are prove to poke a little fun at newspaper errors, but the worm turned the other day when the State Chat editor of the Lewiston Journal read an Abbott Academy item stating that "the Home Economics classes are learning to cook and make aprons." This inspired Mr. State Chat to ask: "How do you prefer them, boiled, fried or baked?"

Did you hear about the youngster who went into a spa at The Brook and asked for anastasio ice cream?

In turf circles Thursday everybody was discussing the achievements of Henry E. Clukey, who starred at Topham Fair when he drove Dusty Hanover a mile in 2:03 and won three other races. When they take account of stock at the end of each racing season, Henry Clukey stands in about the same position as did the character created by the poet James Henry Leigh Hunt—"And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest."

Through my alley window yesterday drifted a mosquito which had failed to "check out" when his companions did. Anyhow it varied the monotony of swatting the fly.

Before the advent of the Parimutuel there used to be considerable interest in the actual outcome of the race, but today the first question is, "How much was the daily double?" And yet I suspect that the daily double will continue to hold the center of the stage.

My associate John Richardson asks if I have noticed how rapidly horse chestnut trees are disappearing. Well, I had not observed it, but I do notice that the big tree in front of Dr. Weismann's house on School street is still functioning in fine style. It would be interesting to know how many hundreds of school children have filled their pockets with horse chestnuts from that tree.

Eight Best Cooks

The Invasion of Bayside One of the Summer Season's Epics

Bayside, Northport, Oct. 14.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—The leafy solitudes of this deserted summer resort were invaded Tuesday noon by a couple of rolling delicatessen stores containing samples of the kitchen handwork of eight of Rockland's best cooks. Each culinary masterpiece was accompanied by its creator, and all were bound for the third in a weekly series of bridge fights which Dr. and Mrs. Reed have been encouraging to take out their meager larder and put on a little weight for the coming winter.

The entourage pulled into Bayside at two bells in the afternoon watch and unloaded provisions for half an hour. Afterward the visitors consumed about a quarter of what they brought and settled down for their afternoon squabble, while the host remained in the kitchen to view the damage done and estimate the probable returns for his hospitality in terms of leftovers, so delicious that they could hardly be expected to last the family over four days at the outside.

Just being around when the party arrived was good for a man's size wedge of golden brown pumpkin pie. This was cooked and served with a smile by Mrs. John Snow as an appetizer for other masterpieces prepared by Mrs. H. B. Fales, Mrs. Henry B. Bird, Mrs. A. J. Bird (who came across with a jar of apple jelly whose glowing color put the foliage to shame), Mrs. Louise Spear, Mrs. Emily Stevens and Mrs. Freda Smith. Mrs. Smith had charge of the load, in the first car which came into Bayside, followed by a flock of seagulls which haven't been so far up the river since the Boston boats stopped running, three or four years ago.

The ladies, including the hostess, played cards all the afternoon and presumably had a good time, while the host, fortified by a liberal helping of Mrs. Spear's escalloped potatoes, visited the golf course and promptly beat two men he had been trying to beat all summer.

Altogether it was a most satisfying visitation. G.H. Are.

The list of patrolman who have died since Percival Condon joined the force in 1915, and as furnished by him for Thursday's issue of this paper, lacked two names—Lamont A. Wellman and John D. Chapman.

Dan Adams' Scottie must have the world's record for good nature if tail waving counts for anything. He (the Scottie) may be seen in the display window of the Central Maine Power Co., in Masonic Temple.

Oxton-Huntley

The home of William Huntley was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday night when his daughter, Myrtle L., became the bride of Raymond Oxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oxton of Lincolnville Beach, Rev. W. F. Brown using the double ring service. They were attended by Miss Pearl Huntley, twin sister of the bride, and Arthur Oxton, brother of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony. The house was beautifully decorated with evergreen and autumn leaves. Both bride and groom are graduates of Camden High School class of 1931. After a trip to Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Oxton will reside in Lincolnville Beach.

There are 38 tuition students from Lincolnville, 24 from Hope, two from Northport, and one from Matineus, making a total of 65.

Students transferred here are Pauline and Oletta Eaton from Sedgwick, Janette Ryder from Brooks, Robert Berry from Oyster

This year Camden High has two orchestras. The first is the regular Camden orchestra which practices Monday morning and Wednesday afternoon. The other is the Lincolnville division which is composed of 14 players and has its practice the second period Monday morning directly after the Camden orchestra. Having the orchestra practice within school hours is another new feature which was inaugurated this year.

The glee clubs are now hard at work on part music under the instruction of Mrs. Esther Rogers. There are 55 girls and 38 boys enrolled. The officers in the girls' club are Lucile Dickens, president; Barbara Gamage, vice president; Mary Hatch, secretary and treasurer; and Selma Heal and Lucille Colson, librarians. Accompanists are Barbara Wood for the girls and Philip Pendleton for the boys.

Friends of Mark Ingraham, a freshman at the University of Maine, will be interested to learn that he won first place in the first meet of the freshman cross country races Oct. 1, and Oct. 8 he broke the course record by 11 seconds running against time in a special race.

Mr. Sprague a publishing representative spoke recently to those interested in organizing a magazine drive. One-half of the proceeds will go into the Athletic Association fund. It will be appreciated if the townspeople will co-operate with the students trying to aid this worthy cause by subscribing before Oct. 17.

Milford Payson entertained at dinner Wednesday night at Camp Life on Megunticook Lake: Supt. and Mrs. Charles E. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton P. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Frye, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Richards, Miss Anna Keating, Miss Helen McCobb, Miss Dorothy Baker, Miss Hester Ordway, Miss Bertha Clason and Miss Jessie Hosmer.

The seniors are already working on their class play. A rollicking farce has been chosen, entitled "Lend Me Your Baby" to be presented Dec. 2.

Students to the number of 250 gathered in the Opera House Friday to attend the Freshman Reception. The freshmen were very good sports and entered into the fun as well as the upper classmen. The music was furnished by the High School amplifier and the punch was given through the courtesy of Dean's store.

Camden High is one of the many schools which is introducing a new fall sport, six-man football. Due to the lack of interest on the part of the student body in the past this school has not had a football team since 1933.

This year 18 men are out for practice under the guidance of Coach Daly. Judging by the casual remarks the boys are enjoying the scrimmages immensely even though they are very lame. These men have been given suits: Ames, Bag-nell, Berry, Bracy, Clegg, Connors, Dearborn, Fairbrother, Hardy, Johnson, Marriner, McFarland, Milliken, Parker, Pellerin, Wasgatt, and Wentworth.

The first game is scheduled with Boothbay Harbor, Saturday afternoon.

The J. Franklin Caveny Co. furnished royal entertainment to an appreciative audience in the Opera House Tuesday night. Mr. Caveny truly made the audience gasp at his ability to portray beautiful pictures with speed almost equal to an automatic press.

One observer said that Mr. Caveny could draw a picture quicker than a rubber-stamp Congressman could say "Yes." He performed in a beautiful musical setting provided by Miss Helen Stringer, violinist and original monologist and Miss Irene Scislowski, radio soprano and pianist.

The final program in the Collins entertainment festival will be presented next Tuesday at the Opera House. The Casford Players, a professional troupe, will present a successful Broadway comedy, "Mary's Other Husband." The problems and bewilderment of a wife and her efforts to impress her wealthy uncle form the basis of the plot. This play was written by Larry Johnson, author of the Belasco production, "It's a Wise Child" and has a cast of five.

Tickets for the final performance are now on sale and may be obtained from committee members or at the Women's Exchange, Bay View street. It is unusual nowadays to have a professional group of players appear here and they should be greeted by a full house. The proceeds from the play will be devoted to the School Milk Fund and the University of Maine Scholarship Fund.

The bowling league teams have been having workouts this week, in preparation for the scheduled matches beginning Monday. The Post Office, Lions and Kiwanis teams looked plenty good in their practice strings. All the teams are much stronger, and averages will probably go higher. Feyler's will replace the Central Maine Power Co. team on the schedule.

The season gets underway Monday night with the Faculty vs. Post Office, and Lions vs. Perry's, at 7:30. Tuesday night will see the Elks vs. John Bird Co., and Kiwanis vs. Armour's, and Thursday night the A.P. vs. Glendinning's and Rice Co. vs. Feyler's.

The Faculty team expects to ride to victory more often than last year, and new faces have appeared in their lineup. Capt. McCarty says, "We won't be any 'push-over' this year." On the team will probably be Topping, DeVeber, Bowden, Rossnagel, Cumming, Flanagan, Capt. Bill Glendinning has Shepherd, Heald, Soffayer, Murphy, Williams and Rogers. On the John Bird Co. team, led by Chet Mason, are Parsons, Cummings, Marshall, Snow, Jordan and Pitts.

Piloting the Elks team is Fred Black, with Brewer, McIntosh, Berilawsky, Roes and Simmons. Capt. Vance Norton's teammates are Mitchell, Marshall, Post, Sukeforth, Gardner and LeGage, carrying the banner for Perry's, on Rice Co. team are Capt. Fred Walker, Gardner, Cargill, Ronco, Carter, Bowser and Miller. The A. & P. team, captained by Ralph Clark, has Hobbs, T. Mazzeo, Anderson, Harding, F. Mazzeo and Mosher. On the Post Office are the three Perrys, Capt. Chatto, Rackliff, Dudley and McPhee.

The Kiwanis Club has Capt. Scar-lott, Brackett, Miller, Russell, Lamb, Grossman and Pomeroy. Capt. George Sleeper of the Lions has Allen, Newman, Whitney, Beaulieu, Hary and Annis. Nothing has been heard as yet from Feyler's and Armour's but it will be a battle all the way and who will win the top place in the league?

There were 102 boys enjoying the use of the ping pong tables, and checkers, at the building Tuesday afternoon. There are four ping pong tables, and card tables for games, and the activities were carried on until nearly 8 o'clock, when the supper table was most important.

Each week, more and more fans join the badminton and ping pong players. Alan Grossman is the new champion among senior members.

Prizewinners for single high string on the alleys last week were Cuccinello with 125, and Topping with 121.

Memberships are increasing every day, but there's still room for more. Get yours now, and join your friends in these indoor sports.

Butch Amazed 'Em

Rockland Boxer, Apparently Licked, Knocks Out Opponent At Bangor

Butch Wooster, who appears in the main bout at the Park Street Arena next Wednesday night, won a sensational battle in Bangor Thursday night. Bill Geagan thus describes it in the Bangor News: "Stumbling, battered and blood-spattered and apparently hopelessly beaten, Butch Wooster, lion-hearted Rockland warrior, came back from the very jaws of defeat to knock out hard-punching Carl Lawless of Woodland with a dramatic suddenness early in the third round of a scheduled eight-round bout in the Chateau Thursday night.

Lawless, rangy left hander who won the State amateur middleweight championship in the annual Bangor Daily News Tournament last month, was making his professional debut.

"On the far short end of the waning, Lawless came out slow for the first round. He boxed badly for a few seconds, then steadied down and after weathering Wooster's initial rush he nailed the Rockland fighter with a hard left smash to the chin that sent him bleeding and sprawling to the canvas. Wooster came back after a nine count still groggy and completely bewildered by the southpaw stance of Lawless, took considerable punishment until the bell ended the hectic round.

"The second round opened with a rush as both men tangled in mid-ring. Wooster now fighting out of a semi-crouch was offering a difficult target but in the very first exchange Lawless again snapped over that long, devastating left for the head. The blow, carrying terrific power, exploded flush on Wooster's chin and he went down again. Badly shaken and with the blood streaming from his heaving nostrils the stout hearted Rockland bomber came back with both fists flying. Lawless, taller than his husky foe cleverly evaded the right hand swings for the head and countered with both hands to Wooster's head. Wooster threw another right and missed, and Lawless, stepping in fast landed a right, then delivered the left to the head again.

"It was a counter punch, perfectly executed and landed with crushing force sending Butch down like an oak tree struck by lightning. But again the Rockland fighter came back and again he was punished badly as Lawless punched with both hands inside his left and right swings. Then in sheer desperation the rugged Rockland battler, veteran of many a stormy ring encounter, charged with both fists flying and just six seconds before the bell ended the round, dropped Lawless on his back with a right high on the head.

"The crowd that packed the mid-town hall to near capacity was in an uproar as the two hard punching young battlers came out for the third round. Wooster, his eyes blazing and every muscle tensed, came out of his corner in a low crouch and well bunched up. Lawless met him with a sharp right jab to the head and left short with another driving left. As the blow missed, leaving his jaw wide open, Wooster set himself and let fly with an overhand right that landed flush on Carl's jaw. Lawless dropped to the canvas like a man shot through the heart where he was counted out by Referee Dunc McDonald, while trying courageously to regain his feet.

"It was the end of one of the most thrilling battles ever staged in a Bangor ring and a battle that will ride high in the annals of local pugilism down through the mists of time."

JERE N. FARNHAM

Jere N. Farnham, son of Joseph M. and Mary M. (Keene) Farnham, who died Oct. 10 after a very brief illness, was born in Rockland and lived his entire life in the same house. He followed the trade of a carpenter for many years, but for some time past was well known for his poultry and garden produce.

Feb. 28, 1906, he was married to Maggie B. Gregory of Glen Cove, who survives him.

He united with the Littlefield Memorial Church May 12, 1889, and has ever been a faithful member and a tireless worker, having held almost every office in the province of the church. Funeral services were held in the church he loved so well with five of his brother deacons as bearers. He also belonged to the Odd Fellows, a delegation of its members being present at the services.

Mr. Farnham was a gentle, kindly man, who spoke no ill of his neighbor, but no eulogy is needed for him, as his life from day to day spoke for itself. He has fought the good fight of faith and laid hold on eternal life, whereunto we also are called, and professed a good profession before many witnesses.

SERMONETTE

When The Comforter is Come

There seems to be something lacking in the religious life of today that was vital and animate in my youth. It seems almost as if we had closed the door and shut out the most important thing in Christian living.

Over my home and cottage is the main altarway of the State Day and night great planes sweep through the sky. If one goes to the airport at leaving time, the groundman spins the propeller, until he feels the power established between the engine and flywheel and he calls "Contact" and the ship moves slowly away.

Contact, ay! that is it. Just before His death, Christ tried to make His disciples visualize the long separation that was to be.

"Let not your heart be troubled; believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions, I go to prepare a place for you, and I will come again and receive you to myself."

But Christ apprehended that physical absence meant loss of contact and He tells His disciples, "I will pray the Father, he shall give you another comforter to be with you forever. I will not leave you desolate; I come to you."

In my early days, in the old church, at Rockland we not only heard about, but was conscious of the Holy Spirit. One does not hear much these days of the comfort which is ever at hand, —immediate contact with God.

At the hour of my father's death we were all conscious of the Comforter's presence. "I bear witness."

—William A. Holman

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice, with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion" (Isaiah 52:7-8).

MRS. FRED Y. FRENCH

Arthur H. French, night clerk at Hotel Rockland, received news Thursday of the death of his mother, Mrs. Fred Y. French, which took place in Bridgeport, Alabama, Oct. 12, after an illness of several months. The deceased was a native of Boston, and had spent much of her life in that city and at Sandy Point.

After the death of her husband in 1914, Mrs. French lived with her sister, now deceased; and at the time of her death had been living with her niece, Miss Eleanor Whitaker.

Episcopal services in Bridgeport were followed by cremation and there will be a committal service at Sandy Point.

NORTH WALDOBORO

The scenes that open to the eyes are woodlands clothed in gorgeous hues.

As the tourist over the highway hies, it matters not which way they choose. Where is the painter who will produce like colors as Nature paints? They try, but find there's little use. Their efforts only end in feints.

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Robinson of South Gardiner were guests of Mrs. Maude E. Mank last week.

Mrs. Fred Vannah, who has been ill several weeks, was taken to the sanatorium in Fairfield last Tuesday. Our wishes are for a speedy recovery and return home to active life.

Llewellyn Mank, a native of this place but now of East Gardiner, Mass., is visiting relatives and friends here, with his wife.

The Hildebrandt summer resort is now abandoned by vacationists. There are few places more attractive to tourists than the Hildebrandts have built up.

Mrs. Sadie Davis, Miss Della Burnheimer Mrs. Lula Miller, Mrs. Flora Mank, Mrs. Maude Mank and Mrs. Ruby Walter Miller, motored to Rockland last Thursday.

Mrs. Flora A. Mank, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walter with Mrs. Maude E. Mank as chauffeur motored to Whitefield (King's Mills) Saturday and enjoyed a pleasant call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Cunningham.

The strenuous efforts of the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. Church to make their chicken supper and fair a success were rewarded by the record crowd that ever appears on such occasions. Strangers from distant parts were there patiently waiting their turn to be served. Sorry that a few who had other engagements were unable to wait. One man counted 86 cars at 6 p. m. after which many more came. The receipts were $173.20 with adults at 50 cents and children at 25 cents. Articles sold at the fair netted a rich harvest, and purchasers were well satisfied that they got their money's worth. The candy stall netted $23. It was operated by Mrs. Sadie Davis and Miss Della Burnheimer. It would be difficult to mention, or credit all who participated making the affair a success, but it does not seem that all should be willing to credit Mrs. Maude E. Mank, the head manager, with capable leadership.

The six days of excellent weather last week gave all outside work a forward push. Especially was it appreciated by E. G. Miller who has a crew of five men building a waterway 126 feet from the main dam to connect with the penstock the length of which is approximately 100 feet more to the waterwheel.

Little did the writer think, when, with friends, he called at the happy home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Crosby in Windsor only a few weeks ago and found him seemingly in perfect health that Mr. Crosby would pass away so quickly. Last Tuesday came the news of his demise. Mrs. Crosby is the daughter of Mrs. Winnie Sherman, a life-long resident of Waldoboro. The obsequies were held Friday with Rev. Charles W. Lowell of Hallowell officiating. Mr. Lowell was a former pastor of the M. E. Church at Windsor and also of the M. E. church here. Mr. Crosby was one of the prosperous farmers in Windsor and leaves a part of his large crop yet ungarnered, which task falls to his lonely wife to plan.

CUSHING

Capt. Fred L. Maloney

On Sept. 14 there died an aged and respected citizen of this community—Captain Fred Lester Maloney. Capt. Maloney was born in this town Feb. 5, 1858, the eldest son of the late Capt. Eli and Carolyn (Mank) Maloney. Nearly all his life was spent here and on the sea, where he served as captain for many years.

When he was 18 he was converted by his father-in-law, who was then an exhorter in the Methodist Episcopal Church. At about this time he was married to Miss Lizzie Thompson with whom he lived in happy wedlock for 61 years and with whom he joined the church in which he was converted, and served it all the days of his wedded life. He was also a member of the trustee board of that church.

The deceased was a truly kind husband and father and a good friend and neighbor to all in the community. He was always of a cheerful disposition, patient, and thoughtful toward others and his home was ever a place of hospitality and contentment.

He had been in failing health for some time previous to his death and had also been nearly blind, so that he had been obliged to give up his usual activities sooner than he otherwise would have done.

The large attendance at his funeral, at Hawthorne Point, and the lovely display of flowers were tokens of the high esteem and affection in which he was held in the community. He will be greatly missed not only by his family circle but also by his friends and neighbors.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Lewis at the home of the deceased at Hawthorne Point and the interment was made at Hawthorne Point cemetery.

Duty Of Catholics

Set Forth In New Version of Catechism—Obligations As Voter, Taxpayer, Office Holder, Etc.

The religious obligations of American Catholics—as voters, as taxpayers, as holders of public office, as soldiers in war time and in their other roles as citizens—have been stated explicitly for the first time in a new version of the catechism which the Roman Catholic bishops and archbishops of the United States are considering distributing to the 20,000,000 Catholics of the country.

The Catholic is bound by his religion to go to the polls at elections and to vote "without selfish purpose," the privately printed and secretly distributed tentative new version of the catechism declares. He must not dodge "just taxes." He must take "an active part in works of good citizenship." He must be patriotic and at all times "ready to defend his country's rights even with his life."

Office-holding Catholics are bound in pain of sin not to take bribes, and are instructed further that they must promote "the welfare of all," so far as "their office demands."

This emphasis on the duties of Catholics as American citizens is virtually unprecedented in the catechism which has been in use since 1885. The original catechism, a slightly slimmer volume, seldom even indirectly mentions country, containing merely an injunction to obey "lawful superiors."

The version of the new catechism as it now stands is expected to be approved by the hierarchy with few changes. The new catechism has been prepared by 150 of the foremost Catholic theologians in the country, and has already once been presented to the bishops for study.

The duties of citizenship are taken up in the new version during the discussion of the Fourth Commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother." Lawful authority in general is discussed, and then the catechism continues:

"(Question) 239. What are the duties of a citizen toward his country?"

"The duties of a citizen toward his country are to love it, to be sincerely interested in its welfare, and to respect its lawful authority."

"240. How does a citizen show a sincere interest in his country's welfare?"

"A citizen shows a sincere interest in his country's welfare by using his right to vote, honestly and without selfish purpose; by paying just taxes; by being ready to defend his country's rights even with his life, when necessity demands."

"241. How do we know that we must respect and obey the lawful authority of our country?"

"We know that we must respect and obey the lawful authority of our country because God wills it, since civil authority is necessary for the welfare of men living on earth."

"242. Why are we obliged to take an active part in works of good citizenship?"

"We are obliged to take an active part in works of good citizenship because many needs and rights of our neighbors are such that unless we all work together to supply these needs and to guard these rights we shall fulfill our duty only imperfectly, if at all."

"243. What are the chief duties of those who hold public office?"

"The chief duties of those who hold public office are to be just to all in the exercise of their authority and to promote, as far as their office demands, the welfare of all."

Bribes and Perjury Mentioned

In the list of moral virtues the new catechism names "filial piety and patriotism, which help us to honor and respect our parents and our country," before it mentions obedience, veracity, patience, humanity or chastity. Patriotism is not even listed as a moral virtue in the old catechism.

The "accepting of bribes by public officials" is described in the catechism as a direct violation of the seventh commandment: "Thou shalt not steal." Lying under oath is excommunicated as "the great sin of perjury."

In the new version of the catechism is changed throughout. Many of the answers to questions, even to some so fundamental as God's reason for creating man, have been rephrased, adding new emphasis to certain parts and sometimes omitting entirely other sections of answers.

A foreword to the bishops among whom the new version of the catechism was distributed says that the aim of alteration has been to present a revised theological text expressing the content of the faith accurately and clearly, which can be used as a doctrinal summary and basis of pedagogical textbooks.

Changes in the questions and answers begin immediately in the new text. The old read:

1. Q. Who made the world?
A. God made the world.

The new reads:
1. Who made us?
God made us.

Texts Are Different
The old catechism taught that God made man "to know Him, to love Him, and to serve Him in this world, and to be happy with Him for ever in the next." The new teaches that "God made us because, in His goodness, He wished us to share in His own life and happiness." The knowledge, love and service of God is to be taught the pupil in a new and separate question as man's "supreme duty."

In the chapters dealing directly with God almost the whole text has been altered. There have been no changes in Catholic theological belief, but that part of it which has been emphasized for the many millions of American Catholics who learned by heart little more of their faith than that part drilled into them from the catechism in parochial and Sunday schools, in several instances reflects a changed point of view.

After the injunction to know, love and serve God, a new question is introduced: "Why should we strive above all things to know, to love, and to obey God?" It asks, and answers: "We should strive above all things to know, to love, and to obey God because of His own goodness, and because we owe this to God, our Maker and our Father, who has given us everything, and because our eternal happiness depends on it." The old catechism included no such explanation.

The old catechism said that "God sees us and watches over us;" the new states it: "God sees us and watches over us with loving care."

The old catechism told the child that "we shall know the things which we are to believe from the Catholic Church, through which God speaks to us." The new one includes a similar statement, but includes a similar statement, "From the

Onions Substituted For Ice Cream In Bowlers' Banquet At "The Shoe"

ODE TO THE GOOSE
At the Shoe—At the Shoe—
It was there I first saw you.
A chicken wing in one hand
A leg in the other, too.
A coffee cup steaming, potatoes on the side.
Just one thought in your graying
head—
"To take those Skippers for a ride."

Those oldtime friends and enemies, the Skippers and the Ganders, had their first convale of the season at the Shoe last Monday night, and if the amount of chicken and other delicacies consumed is any criterion, the bowling season is started off in a fine way. Served with a curt court summons (Casside Superior Court) to stand and deliver, A. Peterson, a member of the Skippers in good standing, furnished three home grown egg grass fed chickens and these, with such other fixins as the Grand Exalted Keeper of the Nose Bag Frank Grimes could produce, furnished something for the boys to set their teeth in.

About 6:30 all hands were on deck with empty holds, and while the table groaned at the beginning of the meal, it was the crowd sitting around it which did the groaning after. The table was cleverly and artistically decorated with place cards that bore a striking resemblance to the person who was to sit at that particular place, and each was made up in such a manner that one would know unmistakably who it was meant to represent. There was one thing that seemed to puzzle the boys however, and that was the question as to just what the egg shells that formed the heads of the miniature figures meant, whether they represented good eggs or bad eggs.

The high spot of the banquet was Gene Hall's speech of thanks to Skipper Peterson for the chickens, a spot where Gene was at his best, and as he sat down amid thunderous applause it was conceded he had been Chauncey Depew, Charlie Chaplin and Jack Benny, all rolled into one.

There was one discordant note, that is, except when the boys were singing, then there were several. It seems that The Grand Exalted Keeper of the Nose Bag Grimes had set great store by some special and selected onions he had cooked. These nicely buttered were carried, carefully all the way up to the Shoe and placed on the back of the stove where they would keep nice and warm. Everything was going along nicely and the boys were well filled with ballast and just finishing up on the apple pie, when the Grand Keeper suddenly jumped to his feet and wildly shouted, "Great scott, we've forgotten the onions."

And so for the first time in history apple pie and onions were served as dessert. But the fellows all said they weren't bad—not bad at all.

While things were fairly even at the table (a poll of sports writers gave the Skippers three courses, the Ganders two, and one course, dessert, even), on the alleys it was a different proposition. For the Skippers a sad, sad, proposition. Young Vic Shields, who hasn't rolled a ball down the alleys for all summer, suddenly broke loose and in his last string smashed out a 103 string, making his total 321 for the evening, and bringing cries and charges of "professional" from the deluged Skippers.

The old Goose was just about up to his last year's average and seemed content. Gene Hall and Scottie Littlefield had their usual nip and tuck battle, with Scottie three pins up at the end. The worst struggle of the evening, however, was Postmaster Drew, whose arm seemed out of joint, and whose nose will be, if his score doesn't improve. The P. M. tried everything to make matters better, even to double crossing himself as to where he was going to place the ball on the alley, but it all ended in naught. That is, only 214 from naught.

But if anybody thinks those Skippers are at all discouraged by the result of the opening battle they have another guess coming, for according to Gene Hall it is part of their strategy to spot the Ganders about three matches, so they will get over-confident and then rush them right off their feet into the Mill Stream. Losing the first game, according to Gene, was just so much chicken feed. The score:

Cycle with stunning designs that keynote next year's mode

It all started with "catwalk-cooling," on the costly racing cars of Europe.

They were shooting at better aerodynamics, not new styling—but they touched off something that will re-pattern cars everywhere before it's done.

Not that looks alone ever come first with Buick. What's really Buick is underneath all that, down deep in the good true metals, the split-hair precision, the tough alloys.

But everyone goes for beauty, and you would be less than human if you didn't thrill to an eye-fel of the smartest dressed automobile you ever saw.

So let your gaze take it in.

Spot the radiator grilles... down low. They're the key to new-day design.

Few persons ever realize that Hollywood's feminine stars spend more than $150,000 a year for hosiery.

Motion pictures studios spend upwards of $350,000 a year on stockings for their wardrobe needs, according to Willy de Mond, former extra who has long been Hollywood's entrepreneur of exotic hose to the stars and studios. The rest of that huge amount is the total of personal bills of the stars.

"And you can gather the emphasis the studios place on good looking legs from the fact that stockings may sometimes be the most expensive item in a star's wardrobe," he tells me. Among the many personal clients of de Mond are Marlene Dietrich, Carole Lombard, Claudette Colbert, Martha Raye, Joan Crawford, Gail Patrick, Betty Grable, and most of the other top ranking female stars.

The average bill for sheathing a star's shapely legs in Hollywood ranges between $1500 and $2500 a year. "Marlene Dietrich's bill never runs less than $2500 a year," he says. If she is out dancing at the Trocadero and goes through a pair, he delivers new ones immediately in response to a phone call. Miss Patrick spends $1700 a year and Martha Raye $2300 since she added "glamour."

Rudolph Valentino, during his reign as a star, received more fan letters than any top-ranking players today. Fan mail is steadily declining.

Modern movie cameras cost upwards of $6,000, a considerable increase over the old "boxes" which photographed Mary Pickford in 1908.

Raw film stock (unused film), improved 1000 percent in quality, is approximately 500 percent cheaper than that of 30 years ago.

Testing Of Cattle actors To the Prevalent Bang's Disease

Between eight and ten percent of Maine's cattle are reactors of the prevalent Bang's disease, according to a report made today by H. M. Tucker of the Department of Agriculture, in connection with the budget for the Division of Animal Industry.

This estimate was made following the testing of cattle for Bang's disease which show approximately 14% disease among the herds submitted for supervision, stated Mr. Tucker's report.

Tucker further stated that the 10,600 cattle scheduled for shipment out of the State must be disease free. Of this number 600 which are found to be Bang's disease reactors, are kept here in the state. This condition if continued would create a larger percentage of diseased cattle here than the present figures show.

As a solution to this critical situation, Mr. Tucker suggests the 1937 appropriation of $35,000, set aside for Bang's disease be substantially increased. Through this increase it would be possible to continue the testing of herds, which has been discontinued, due to the lack of funds, and to pay the herd owner for cattle condemned and slaughtered. It would also take care of a suggested plan for slaughtering cattle scheduled for interstate shipment, when tests showed animals affected with Bang's disease.

At the present time there is no law covering the payment of indemnities to dealers, who are not herd owners. A change in the State law would be necessary to facilitate this payment.

Garden Club Meeting

The final Garden Club meeting of this season was held Thursday night at Mrs. W. T. Flint's attractive home. The business for the year was concluded and Mrs. Charles Shore was appointed chairman of the nominating committee to report at the first meeting in the spring. Mrs. R. O. Elliott recited a poem entitled "Situation Wanted: Hardy Perennials." Mrs. H. D. Crie's talk on her experience with carrier pigeons was followed by discussion of the subject.

Through the courtesy of the "Maine Broadcasting Company" the Station TGC was established for an hour of communication with the small garden clubs throughout the length and breadth of the State who had sent in important horticultural questions to be answered by the Thomaston Garden Club as a body of experience and knowledge. The six appointed to speak over the radio to these clubs were Mrs. Doolittle, Miss Vernon, Miss Beeman, Miss Treadwell, Miss Halliday and Mrs. MacPlatitudes, with Mlle. Questionnaire as announcer. All questions sent in were answerable by the common names of flowers and plants; and if the designated speaker was unable to handle the subject it was submitted to the company in general, giving all a turn "on the air." Score was kept and at the end prizes were awarded to everybody. The perfect microphones were the handwork of Mrs. J. Edward Elliott.

Refreshments were served, Mrs. R. O. Elliott and Mrs. J. E. Elliott pouring.

Farmers' Union Meeting

Thomaston Farmers' Union met Oct. 11 to discuss the subject "How can the farmers secure a more satisfying market for their products?" Two of the expected speakers were not able to attend but they were fortunate in having Charles M. White of the Maine Department of Agriculture, chief of the division of markets, who gave an interesting account of marketing farm products and especially of the development of the new Maine "Poultry Co-operative, Inc.," an organization of Maine poultrymen in successful operation for the last 15 months, with an Egg Auction Market in Lynn, Mass.

The eggs are gathered from farms and taken there, where they are graded and sold under the new State Fresh Egg Grading Laws. With this method of selling it is hoped to get a little better price for the producer and at the same time give the customer a better and more reliable product. Mr. White spoke highly of W. H. Dillon of East Vassalboro, the president, and Edgar Smith of North Edgcomb, a director, and others of the "Maine Poultry Co-operative, Inc." who have given generously of their time for the benefit of co-operative marketing.

R. C. Wentworth, county agent for Knox-Lincoln Counties, spoke interestingly of co-operative work they are doing with the Farm Bureau members, taking up different projects and explaining them, also the work they are doing with "Government Soil Conservation" for the farmers. The Extension Service of the University of Maine is doing good work for the community.

R. N. Atherton, extension economist, marketing, of the U. of M., presented "Locker Refrigeration" with moving pictures. Locker refrigeration means a public refrigerator in a community, where both the producer and consumer may rent a locker on the principle of deposit boxes in a bank, and for his own personal use for an extended period of time.

The meeting was held in K. P. hall. A chicken dinner was served at noon by members of Mayflower Temple, Pythian Sisters.

GUARDIANS OF OUR COAST

What our lightkeepers and coast guardsmen are doing to protect coastwise shipping by day and by night. The day's news from many lonely outposts along Maine's waterfront.

Argument Settled

The captain and the chief engineer of a small vessel had an argument as to which had the more important job. Each thought the other's work was much simpler than his own.

Finally, the captain volunteered to take the engineer's place in the engine room if the latter would take his place on the bridge and they accordingly changed over.

After a short interval, the captain telephoned up to the engineer, "I think you'd better come down here. The engines have stopped and I can't get them to move at all."

"Don't worry," replied the engineer. "We're ashore."

Portland Head

Great weather. The heat wave is most welcome; may it go on and on.

We lost our flower garden when the hurricane struck, but the great outdoors the past week has been wonderful both day and night.

Mrs. W. C. Dow of Portland was guest Wednesday of Mrs. R. T. Sterling.

F. O. Hilt and family entertained during the week retired Keeper Leiland Mann and Mrs. Mann of Camden. Mr. and Mrs. Amlaw of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Grant of Cape Elizabeth and Keeper Myers of Ram Island Light. The water was riled up a bit, delaying his return to duty.

R. T. Sterling and family are back from vacation reporting a delightful trip. Mrs. Sterling was joined in Boston by her niece Miss Marion Sterling of Peaks Island and they went by train to New York, visiting Mrs. Sterling's brother.

Thursday's paper gave an account of the death of Capt. Benjamin MacVane veteran Portland Harbor Pilot at the Marine Hospital where he had been confined for six weeks. Capt. MacVane will be missed on the waterfront and also as pilot where he so thoroughly fitted the position he held. We shall miss this congenial veteran at Portland Head where he visited often in the interest of his vocation. Capt. MacVane passed the greater part of his life on the water where he mingled with men and was a friend to man. We

A Port Clyde Storm

This Happened In '69 and Our Friend Hatton Describes It

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 3

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

The late hurricane, said to be the worst in 116 years, reminds me of some of the storms that I have seen. What the damage was in 1823 I have no means of knowing, but I remember well the one that broke with sudden fury Sept. 8, 1869. I was living then in Port Clyde and working for Capt. Samuel Trussell. It began to blow about 3 in the afternoon from the Southeast, and continued to blow harder and harder until midnight when it began to moderate. I went down to the wharf to secure the dories and scow tied to the wharf. I went from the Trussell wharf to the Burnham Morrill wharf and watched a vessel dragging her anchors till she struck the stone pier and smashed her side in. The crew escaped in the small boat.

When you consider that Port Clyde harbor is land locked and generally as smooth as a mill pond it must have been some wind and sea to do such damage. Next morning the wreckage was seen everywhere. Small boats sunk at their moorings, and vessels piled up on the rocks. It probably did not compare with the Sept. 21, 1938 storm, but it was bad enough, and will be remembered by many still living.

If I remember correctly the steamer Katahdin was disabled and had to be towed to Rockland. I see by The Courier-Gazette that the Roving Reporter missed the great storm. It would have been interesting if he could have seen some of the destruction and written about it. I always read his writings and consider him one of the best. I do not even know his name; perhaps he will sign it to some of his articles sometime. Boze is another writer I always look for. I have not seen anything of late but I do not think the hurricane reached the hill where he lives in Somerville, so I expect he will be heard from soon.

Castine Normal

As an introduction to the new six-man football at Eastern State Normal School this year, a rally and dance was held at the gymnasium. Principal William D. Hall gave the history of football at E.S.N.S. and Coach Lloyd D. Hatfield explained the principles of six-man football. The game played Saturday with Bangor Maine School of Commerce, at Castine, resulted in a score of 19-6 in favor of Castine Normal. Albert Hill, '40, of Warren, plays right end on the normal school team.

Students from the Freshman class who went home for last weekend were Ruth Howe, of Union; Beatrice Turner, of Palermo; Grace Gross and Arlene Eaton of Rockland, and Clarissa Bray of Deer Isle.

Margaret McMillan of Rockland sings in the choir at the Federated Church of Castine; Margaret Rogers of Rockland and Lois Robinson of Thomaston and Castine, are members of the Unitarian Church choir.

Committees have been chosen for the fall prom to be held Oct. 21 at E.S.N.S. gymnasium. Albert Hill of Warren, Grace Gross of Stonington, and Ruth Howe, of Union are on the decorating committee.

Clarissa Bray of Deer Isle, is on the refreshment committee; Margaret Rogers of Rockland and Helen Thompson of Warren, are on the ticket committee, and among those serving on the cleanup committee are Arlene Eaton of Stonington, Beatrice Turner of Palermo and Mary Bray of Owl's Head.

Miss Mary Bills of Hope was guest of honor at a banquet at the Jed Prouty Tavern in Bucksport, Thursday evening, given by the faculty. Miss Bills, who was the director of training at E.S.N.S. for many years, retired in 1937 and has returned to the campus for a few weeks' visit. She is a relative of the late Abner Bills of Rockland.

Miss Elizabeth Waters, nutrition consultant, representing the State Department of Health and Welfare, spoke to the students and faculty at chapel, Tuesday on the relation of proper food to efficient school work.

LOST A WHILE

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Gypsy tossed through hill and dale,
He wandered longing, watching,
Life to him seemed sadly stale,
Not quite worth the enduring.

He chanced upon a scrubby knoll
Where rocks and spruces blocked the tide,
He watched the gallant combers pull
Deposits from the deep.
To throw them lightly aside.

He marvelled at the strength and purpose here conjoined;
As wind-tossed waves came swirling in,
With hidden power revealed through mighty thundering
That swept the breakers high.
Almost they speak their magic power
From gods of the deep.

At length he sensed the soul of truth—
Life was not all his own.
The omnipotent power of God's plan
Was here revealed as bulwark for
The strengthening of impotent man.

Then onward through the fields he trekked
Spent heart and soul enchanted;
New vision filled his inner sense,
A thirst for life was granted.
Do your part thought ran with tides,
Brave hearts are needed while life abides.

SOLILOQUY

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Some live to break the laws,
Some hope to float to fame,
While many drift along, without a cause,
Collecting praise and blame.

A lovesong swings the cradle for awhile
And parent tones are low—
That faces may do anything but smile
Shrugs like a blow.

We learn of many sins,
Of jealousy and hate,
We watch the truthful fall as evil wins—
And learn too late.

When shores once loved lay bare the slippery rocks,
Our deepest wells yield light,
But puzzles move so fast along our walks
No power could fit them right!

SHADOW PATTERNS

[For The Courier-Gazette]
The giant oak that spreads
Its reaching arms protectingly
Above the house roof,
Is ruffled by the autumn breezes
As they pass.
Huge, leafy branches wave
And sway rhythmically
And paint a lacy web
Of shadow patterns
On the grass.

THE TRAIL BEHIND

[For The Courier-Gazette]
While tramping over this mundane sphere—
Sometimes a smile, again a tear—
We leave behind an open trail
That others see, and never fail
To notice whether warped or straight,
And by its trends their own may mate.

To let me say a friend, or foe?
Avoid my tracks as on you go,
And follow Him whose path is straight,
And leave to me the Peary Gate.
A friend and brother—tempted and tried.

Like all of us—then suffered and died;
But He rose again, and from on high
He watches our step as we onward ply.

THE RAINBOW'S END

[For The Courier-Gazette]
When I was very, very small
I often had been told,
That if the rainbow's end was found
The world would be a pot of gold.
And so I walked a weary way
Oh, many times to see,
But never found the rainbow's end
Wherever it might be.

Dear childhood days swift sped away
And gone my childish dreams,
But still the rainbow tints the sky,
So beautiful it seems
That yet there lingers in my heart,
For dreamers all are we,
The hope that I shall find the end
Which lies beyond the sea.

Lost dreams of youth and memories
With all their hopes and fears,
Again we'll find them on our hearts
Far down the path of years,
That day the sky will clear for us
And darkness turn to blue,
When we shall find the rainbow's end
Where all our dreams come true.

A FEW YEARS MORE

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Why do we grieve?
For life is but a vale of tears,
That hide our loved ones from our
For just a few short years?

Why do we weep,
When just a few years more—
A glorious day will dawn and we shall meet
Those loved ones gone before?

Why must we sorrow,
Our songs and laughter hide,
When just a few years more
Will see our teardrops dried?

A promise to us is given
If we but keep the faith a few years more
We shall meet and know each other
Upon the Golden Shore.

At Gorham Normal

(By Lorraine Fitz-Patrick)

Tryouts for the Dramatic Club have been announced. Misses Mary Read of Belfast and Ernestine Davis of Rockland were accepted.

Ghosts were seen at Robie Hall the other evening, but it was only the Library Club holding its initiation on fourth floor Robie. The recruits were asked to go dressed up in the dresses back end to, pigtailed with large ribbons, and no makeup. They were introduced to the president then proceeded to the "Chamber of Horrors" Many shrieks and yells floated down to those below. After these procedures had finished refreshments were served and games played. But alas! it continued through the week with the "initiates" wearing bows on each wrist. Some of those girls who were brave enough to join the club were: Fern Brown, Ernestine Davis of Rockland, Janet Henry of Thomaston, Evelyn Brown of Camden and Harleth Hobbs of Hope.

A warning was given to the Freshmen that the upper classmen were all ready to trim them in women's field hockey and in answer to that challenge we found an entire team ready to fight at hockey practice. In this team of hard fighting freshman we have as right wing, Olive Gushue of Appleton; left inner, Malissa Bostick of Rockland; and Maizie Joy of Rockland as left half back. Although the upper classmen scored one the point and the Freshmen none we find the latter a hard fighting team.

Among those girls returning from a weekend are Catherine Chisholm and Rose Flanagan of Rockland. Harleth Hobbs of Hope spent the weekend with Lillian Pereld at Portsmouth, attending the Maine and Durham football game.

Chides "Slowpokes"

Says That Motorists Who Drive At 20 Or 25 Miles Are a Menace

Boston, Oct. 8

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Now that the 1938 touring season has about passed into history, except for the Autumn trippers, I would like to make use of your column to voice a protest about a nuisance I have often noted in Maine, but which seemed worse than usual this year.

I refer to Maine motorists who do not choose to drive at more than 20 or 25 miles an hour on principal highways. On roads that are only two lanes in width they are a menace and investigation has shown that such drivers cause more accidents than do speeders.

Visitors in modern cars are not risking life and limb if they drive at 35, 40 or even 50 miles where opportunity affords. As a rule they are on vacation which is limited in time and they desire to see as much as possible of the countryside, or to get to their destination as quickly as possible. Accordingly, to be held up mile after mile, by a selfish driver who, in many cases, won't even give the other fellow opportunity to pass is not conducive toward good feeling toward Maine.

Massachusetts has a "road mope" law by which a traffic policeman, in his discretion, may compel a slow driver to pull to the side of the road until traffic has thinned out. On some busy highways that might mean keeping the offender there all through a Sunday.

I suggest that the slowpokes who are just out riding might make use of the Knox trotting track, or some similar oval for their spins and leave the highways clear for those who are going somewhere.
